

Gary Aubin facilitates this training.

Gary Aubin brings a wealth of expertise and practical insight to this session. As the Education Endowment Foundation (EEF) Content Specialist for Special Educational Needs and Disabilities, Gary plays a key role in shaping national guidance and supporting schools to improve outcomes for all learners. He is the creator of the widely respected SENDMatters.co.uk blog and author of The Lone SENDCO, a highly regarded handbook offering clear, grounded support for SENDCOs navigating the complexities of the role.

Audience

The training session is suitable for SENCOs, Deputy SENCOs and Senior Leaders.

Join us for a dynamic, practical session that goes beyond simply collecting information. We will dive into the real “so what?” of data—showing you how to transform what you gather into meaningful actions that shape and strengthen your provision.

Discover how to balance targeted interventions with high-quality teaching and learn the core principles that make interventions truly effective. Whether you are looking to refine your current approach or build confidence in decision-making, this session will equip you with the tools, clarity, and strategies to make every piece of data count.
